Buffalo, NY, May 18, 2009 -- Web users everywhere have a new way to celebrate their graduating family and friends at the I Love This Person website. The I Love This Person website gives people an easy way to create permanent online dedication web pages for their favorite graduates. This is the perfect graduation present. Don't just tell the person, tell the whole world!

I Love This Person

People can create a customized dedication page for any person they admire, respect, or love. Dedications are especially great for a family member or friend graduating from high school or college. Dedications can be anonymous, or the creator can display his or her name.

Users can select a single editable lifetime dedication web page for only $19.95. They can select two dedication web pages for $29.95 with lifetime edits, or a Family Pack of eight editable dedications for the price of five, at $99.95. Dedication web pages are visible to anyone searching the Internet. Users also can link dedications to social media websites, such as Facebook, MySpace, and Twitter, making them easy to share.

New users can create a test dedication web page and view it without committing to pay for it. Once they are happy with the results, they can select a single editable dedication for as little as $19.95.

The I Love This Person website is available at the I Love This Person website.
