Richmond, VA • April 22, 2010. Gyrus Systems, a leader in the Learning Management (LMS) industry, launched its new website WWW.GYRUS.COM today to commemorate its 22nd anniversary. Over the years, Gyrus has designed and implemented high quality, flexible learning management products for hundreds of satisfied customers. The new website also focuses on our latest product GyrusAim, our new web based LMS. GyrusAim leverage latest technology innovation by delivering full functionality in a single system.

Align Learning with Performance

"It's our relationships with our customers that have made us successful. So, this year, we celebrate more than just a 22nd anniversary; we celebrate our partnership with our clients," says Mr. Kapadia, President and CEO of Gyrus Systems. "The goal of this new website is to provide valuable education and knowledge to present and future clients to help them make better decisions when choosing an LMS."

More than a celebration, gyrus.com highlights the following features:

- The Gyrus Systems Benefits Analysis Calculator is a unique and interactive tool which helps clients compute the value created by an LMS and justify its use. This exciting feature will be highlighted in more detail in a future press release.

- The unique Knowledge Center taps into Gyrus' many years of industry experience and provides a wealth of free information including whitepapers, blogs, and case studies.
- The services and support of Gyrus are now more accessible on the website, offering live chat, social media connections, support on demand, and collaboration tools.
- Gyrus has made it a high priority to focus on the specific industries that we service. Visitors can get industry specific materials which highlight business challenges and experience with learning management.

"Over the years, we have collaborated with clients across a wide range of industries to find practical and innovative solutions for their Enterprise Learning Management challenges. And we've been honored to develop deep and lasting relationships with many of our clients. We are pleased to share the benefits of that experience with all visitors to our new website" says Mr. Kapadia.
